EVIDENCE GATHERED TO SHOW
INHUMAN CRUELITIES PRACTICED ON DEPORTED CIVILIANS.

FETTERED AND STARVED

Various of Punishment Wears Prisoners into Unconsciousness and Weakens Their Condition.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

HAVE, July 12.—The Belgian government has received from various sources evidence which accords in every detail proving that deported Belgian civilians are subjected systematically to mistreatment to bring them to forced labor for the German army.

This evidence exposes insufficient punishment, cruel punishment, brutal mistreatment and hard conditions of labor under which a great many of the deported civilians become, while a large portion return so reduced and weakened, that they are incapable of physical effort.

This is the regime of the camp of Soltau described by one of the men who had been interned there and who succeeded in escaping.

Men Starved and Exposed.
Besides hunger the principal measures resorted to in order to bring the deported men to submission, were the "supplies" of the camp, which were reduced to a minimum, and the men were exposed to heat or cold, according to season, for days, together with the food ration being reduced systematically until they reached the proportion of half a ration for two days subsistence.

Another cruelty passed upon the deported men to force them to work is the "supply of the tank," or a severe punishment of the tank, which was given to the men who failed to work.

Several witnesses have confirmed this fact, among them the son of a manufacturer of the region of Antwerp, who with several of his comrades, were taken to the camp of Soltau.

There was only room in the place for men to stand erect, and so crowded that they were scarcely able to turn around. Some of them were twenty-four hours, then they were led to a factory where they were asked if they would go to work. Upon their refusal they were taken to the "supplies" of the camp, where they were exposed to a snow storm and a rain day and entire night, with nothing to eat or drink and under absolute prohibition to make the slightest movement. Some of them lost consciousness after a few hours of this exposure, and all of them were taken to hospitals the following day.

Pretended Executions.
A number of witnesses called attention to the fact that frequently groups of deported men have been subjected to simulated executions, sometimes by firing squads, and sometimes by machine guns in order to overcome the resistance and impress their comrades.

There is also another means of constraint upon the deported in the form of punishment camps where a regime is still more severe than in other internment camps, and where those deported are exposed to cold, hunger, and excessive work.

From all evidence it appears certain that the mortality among men in the camps is high, and that the mistreatment is so severe that the death of a great many of deported men is known in the occupied regions of Belgium.

Evidence regarding the camp of Soltau shows that the men are deprived of all diversion and distraction and also receive any kind of a spiritual consolation.

Appeal to President To Frame Compromise On Food Control Bill

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, July 12.—Democratic leaders of the senate finding it well nigh impossible to reconcile conflicting views on the food control bill decided today to appeal to President Wilson to outline his opinion of what compromises should be agreed upon to hasten action on the measure.

The senate agriculture committee decided not to make any endorsement or recommendation regarding the Gore substitute bill. Senator Gore, however, plans to offer it as an individual proposition with the understanding that many of its provisions will have general support in lieu of those in the pending bill.

The Gore bill would limit government control to food and fuel alone, eliminating steel, iron, coffee, cotton and many other products. The prohibition question it was agreed, probably will have to be settled in conference without further senate action because of the unanimous senate agreement under which the senate acted last week.

U. S. INCONSISTENT REGARDING EXPORTS IS SWEDEN'S CLAIM

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Stockholm, July 12.—General resentment and indignation has been aroused in Sweden by a news dispatch from Washington giving what is termed "an official report to the government" on Sweden's exports and imports.

The report, for which authority is not named, accuses in brief that Sweden exported to Germany great quantities of material for making munitions, including especially iron ore, sorghum, manganese, steel, copper, sulfur, zinc and wood pulp, and imported iron ore from America to replace the surplus exported.

Even newspapers most friendly to America joined the chorus of indignation and condemnation of these charges. The papers call attention to America's attitude regarding exports and importations, and what they term the government's inconsistency. They declare America repeatedly protested to England against precisely the same policy which Washington now threatens to adopt against Sweden.

The Associated Press received from an authoritative source the following statement:

"It is no secret that we are exporting iron ore to Sweden. We have been exporting it for more than twenty years. It is our chief article of export. But we export also to England and other countries, and the production of our exports remains nearly the same as before the war. We exported wood pulp to Germany and also to America, France, Italy, and other countries. We exported sorghum to Russia."

"The statement that we are exporting sulfur and zinc to Germany is a ridiculous error. We must use sulfur for our own use. The German produces more zinc than she uses."

"Another misstatement concerns our alleged imports of iron ore from America. We import the war we used from there. Before the war we used from England. These imports have dropped to a third of the normal and we have been importing from America since the war began, but the entire imports are insignificant."

Tucson, Ariz., July 12.—A telephone message from Douglas said three hundred citizens of Douglas heavily armed and with three machine guns left for Bisby early today in automobiles, to assist in I. W. W. roundup there.

Twenty-five box and cattle cars also have been sent to deport the I. W. W. members. Railroad officials would not indicate the destination of the train after it leaves Bisby.

Motorists Victims OF BRAND NEW GRAFT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

New York, July 12.—"Monkey wrench graft" is a new form of getting money illegally, which was charged in the district attorney's office today against twenty-five motorcycle policemen.

The alleged scheme was for a policeman to hand an out of town chauffeur summons to appear in court for speeding. The chauffeur received a card directing him to an automobile supply house. There he was told the case would not be pressed if he purchased a monkey wrench.

For this implement he had to pay an exorbitant price.

Books of supply houses had been subpoenaed for inspection by the grand jury investigating the Ruth Kruger murder case and stories of police connivance in the escape of Alfred Cocchi in whose case Miss Kruger's body was found buried. These books, the prosecutor's office said, would disclose evidence of the "monkey wrench" methods. Cocchi, whose motorcycle shop was visited by some policemen, is said to be only remotely connected with the new phase of the inquiry.

Total British Loss In Belgium Fighting Estimated at 1,800

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, July 12.—The total British casualties from German success near Neuport, Belgium on Tuesday were about 1,800 including prisoners. These figures were given by Major General F. B. Maurice, chief director of the military operations at the war office today, to the Associated Press.

The section captured by the Germans, said General Maurice, was defended by only two battalions of British. The German claim of one thousand two hundred and fifty prisoners being considered probably accurate.

IN GALICIAN DRIVE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Petrograd, July 12.—The Russians have captured Kalusz, the headquarters of the enemy in Galicia. According to information received at the ministry of war, the Russian troops are continuing their successful advance and have taken a large number of prisoners.

Kalusz is a city of about eight thousand inhabitants, situated about 100 miles southeast of Strzy. Yesterday the Russians had reached the Polesie-Lesnivka-Karmaz line south and west of Stanislaw. The central point of this line is Lesnivka, four miles west of the river Bystritza. It is about seven miles east of Kalusz, the nearest large town west of Stanislaw, and which is situated in the bend of the Stoka river.

THIRD SINN FEINER RETAINS HIS SEAT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, July 12.—The election of Edward DeValera as member of Parliament for East Clare, the third Sinn Feiner to be returned to parliament of late, is treated as an event of great political consequence by the British and French, who are concerned to see the entire strength of the German submarine.

The tendency of the unionists press is to emphasize the folly of the government in liberating the Sinn Fein prisoners and refraining to deal more severely with revolutionary talk. These papers regard the situation as gravely threatening for they see nothing in the Sinn Fein movement, but rebellion.

The number of months that the Sinn Fein receive enormous sums of money from the United States, much of it doubtless from German sources which enable them to conduct extensive propaganda.

RECALL TWO BILLS
FROM THE GOVERNOR

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., July 12.—Two important bills, one relating to the attendance at continuation schools and the other to the regulation of trusts and monopolies, were recalled from the governor by the legislature on Wednesday afternoon, amended and re-passed.

The principal change in the continuation school attendance bill, at suggestion of the governor, reduces the number of months of attendance. At the present time, these schools are open for eight months a year and a child under the age of seven years must attend, at least five hours a week if not going to any other school within the city where such schools are located. Under the new bill, attendance at school will be for eight months a week and the number of months will be eight or more, depending on the number of months that the city schools where the continuation schools are located are in operation. The governor's amendment reduces from ten to eight the number of months of attendance.

The Whittey trust and monopoly bill was also amended so as to apply to foreign corporations and individuals. This bill has the record of the legislature. Within an hour after the amendment had been incorporated by both houses, the bill was back in the hands of the governor ready for his signature, which will probably be given at once.

PLAN DRAFT BY END OF NEXT WEEK

DELAY IN ORGANIZING EXEMPTION
BOARDS CAUSE POST-PONEMENT IN DATE OF DRAWING.

METHOD IS NOT GIVEN

Details of System to Be Used With
Not Be Made Public Until Eve of the Event—Rock County to Furnish 449.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, July 12.—Persistent inquiry from all parts of the country for information about the method to be followed in selecting men for the national war army, caused war department officials to explain today that President Wilson's determination to have absolute fairness govern the process was responsible for the decision to withhold announcement of the exact plan until the very eve of the event.

It is understood that the system planned is so simple that the work will be done in a few hours.

Some fear was felt at the war department today that the delays in organization in different parts of the country might cause further postponement of the draft. It had been believed that the drawing might take place Saturday of this week, but it became evident that it could not be held before next week, and indications today were that it might be the latter part of next week before everything was ready.

One of the states where there has been the most confusion in organization is New York. The new estimate of population made by the census bureau as a basis for the draft, it is explained, is not to be taken as a genuine indication of actual population of cities and communities. In some communities industrial conditions have given a city a population much greater than it nominally has, and in other cities where industrial activities are at a low ebb the registration failed to take into account the number which the census bureau had given.

Rock county's quota, according to the estimate given out from Washington, is 449 men out of a total of some 5,700 registered men, about equally divided between two districts. Rock county must furnish the fourth largest number of men for service in the national army of any county in the state. Milwaukee, Dane and Racine counties only exceeding it in the number to be drawn. The basis of the population fixed by the census bureau for Rock county is 67,328.

Walworth county's population, fixed at 27,778, and its quota for the draft is 185. Green county's population is 22,951, and its quota is 213. Jefferson's population is 32,467, and its quota is 217. The population of the city of Madison is given as 47,650, and its quota 217, while Dane county outside Madison is given a population of 50,687, and its quota is 338.

CALLAHAN FAILED TWICE AS MANAGER

One of the most popular league managers who ever piloted a team in the National league was headed to minor league or private life when Jimmy Callahan drew his release from the Pittsburgh league club. In spite of the fact that he has twice registered failures in the big show, Callahan is respected as a smart baseball leader, a fine developer of pitchers, and a gentleman.

Callahan first was a major league manager in Chicago, stepping in there after a brilliant career as a pitcher and outfielder. Backed by Charles Comiskey's open purse he attempted to lead the White Sox to another pennant, but his efforts were failures. He developed a marvelous pitching staff, one that ranked with the best. Red Faber, Mel Wolfgang, Eddie Cicotte, Jim Scott, Ray Russell, Ray Schalk, Happy Felsch and other Chicago stars went to the Windy City under his regime.

When he was let out by Comiskey he went to the Pacific Coast league and plans were laid for him to run a club there until Barney Dreyfus decided on him as a successor to Fred Clarke.

Callahan jumped at the chance to stick as a big league manager. In spite of the fact that he was willed a team that would hardly have been a good minor league club he went into the thing with his whole heart and tried hard to produce something. Experiment after experiment did nothing for the club's betterment. In addition he was guilty of several mistakes that made him decidedly unpopular with certain members of the club. Then the fans began to roar. There was nothing left but to give him the gate.

The release of Douglas Baird, an infielder, was one of Callahan's mistakes; his attempts to discipline Al Mamaux was another. Both cost him games for the Pittsburgh club. Mamaux is one of the best pitchers in the league—Baird one of the most timely batters.

In spite of his failures and his errors Callahan goes from the National league with the good wishes of every manager and owner in the circuit.

Last season's soccer football games in England netted nearly $750,000, from which the government received $125,000 in taxes and charities benefited to the extent of about $20,000. Benefit games played in Scotland at the conclusion of the regular season added $25,000 to various charities.

Time after time this season Donovan's men have lost games that one hit by an outfielder would have won. Hitting in an outer garden is almost an essential. It is an easy matter to go to the minors and find dozens of outfielders who are ball hawks, but who cannot hit. If the Yankees intend to make a real bid for the pennant it looks as if they must pull some kind of trade and do it right away.

NORTHWESTERN GOLF MEET IS HELD AT SHEBOYGAN

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Sheboygan, Wis., July 12.—The annual tournament of the Northwestern Golf association opened at the Sheboygan Country club today with eight clubs represented.

At least seventy-five golfers are expected to participate in the three-day program. The association is composed of the following clubs:—

River View Country club, Appleton; Lakeside Country club, Manitowish; Sheboygan Country club, Sheboygan; Algoma Country club, Algoma; Tusculum Country club, Green Lake; Waubesa Country club, Waubesa; Fox River Country club, Green Bay; River-side Country club, Marinette and Menomonie.

In the American league Chicago has been going very fast but Boston can never be counted out of the pennant race until the flag absolutely is won by some other team.

—but this town is not big enough in which to do business on the ONE SALE ONLY basis.

I must sell tires again and again to the same people.

On this principle my business has grown because I sell a tire that cuts down upkeep to a fair and reasonable figure.

People ask how far will this tire run? I tell them we rarely see a Diamond that won't go five thousand miles. Yet Diamonds are PRICED on a basis of only three thousand five hundred miles.

There is no "velvet" in the price, but plenty of "velvet" in Diamond mileage.

We carry a complete line of sizes in stock and can fill your tire wants immediately. If you can't come, telephone.

Every Diamond Tire must deliver full value in service. If ever a Diamond Tire fails, a cheerful, willing adjustment will be promptly made.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The last hours of the 1917 legislative session are drawing near. The work accomplished has been manifold and the far-reaching laws that have been enacted reflect credit upon the members. L. C. Whittet of Edgerton, representative of the first assembly district of the county, has for the second time proven an efficient speaker of the assembly, and Assemblyman Rosa, while opposed to the majority of the administration and conservative measures, has not feared to speak out "in meeting" even when the state senate has proven his worth and loyalty to the county he represents and has developed into the constructive statesman that his first term gave promise of. Taking it all in all, the 1917 session has been a successful one and its interests conserved. One of the great mistakes of the session, from the point of view of the average citizen, was the failure of the referendum liquor measure to become a law. Technicalities should have been waived after its passage by both houses and it should have been signed. It is a question that the people have a right to vote on and no special interest should have been considered. Another regrettable feature was the failure of the legislature to pass stringent and loyal resolutions at critical periods in the past few months endorsing the President and Congress in the present war. That some half-hearted resolutions were passed at the eleventh hour does not take the stigma from the state or the legislators. The state as a whole has shown its loyalty by its Liberty bond subscription, its donation to the Red Cross work and the enthusiasm to all branches of the federal and state service, but the legislature should have done its part when called upon for the moral effect upon the nation at large. There was too much double-dealing down in Washington on the part of many of the Wisconsin delegation to suit the state as a whole, and a little more patriotic atmosphere at Madison during the past few months would have been appreciated. However, the present session is nearing an end and perhaps too much criticism is not justified in view of the fact that the legislature will soon be excused unless called into extra session and many will not return for another session if the present temper of their constituents continues.

OFF FOR SERVICE.

While official orders have not yet been received actually calling the local militia unit into state service, it is expected they will arrive within the next few hours, and by Sunday noon Company M of the First Wisconsin National Guard will be mobilized ready for service wherever sent. Organized a year ago this month, this organization has made wonderful strides and today ranks well up in the list of its sister companies of the regiment. First known as the Second Separate company it had its ten days' tour of duty at Camp Douglas last August and later its federal inspection. Recruiting was slow and six months ago the company only numbered sixty odd members. It will answer the call for duty but a few short of the required hundred and fifty aside from losing the sixty odd men who composed the Edgerton platoon, originally a part of the Janesville company, and now assigned to Stoutsville, and some thirty odd men by discharge, either to enter some other branch of the service, or for other reasons. This speaks well for the officer in command, by whose untiring efforts the company has been drilled and recruited to its present high state of efficiency. Janesville was fortunate in securing the services of Captain E. N. Caldwell, whose status in the Wisconsin National Guard is of the best, and whose disciplinary pulpit has withstood the redoubtable challenge that will be hard to equal when the twelve companies of the regiment are brought together. The Edgerton platoon, which goes to the Stoutsville company, is to be commanded by Lieutenant Ernest Wood, until lately a sergeant in the regular army. Lieutenant Wood was stationed in Janesville for some time and laid the nucleus of the company. He has been discharged from the regular army for the period of the war and will assume command of the Edgerton platoon, which is most gratifying, not only to the Edgerton members, and their parents, but also to his friends here made here while on duty with the local company. With two such men in command of the local soldier boys, and Captain Buck, himself a former Janesville resident, in command of the Stoutsville company, the local company members of the national guard are assured excellent officers who will look after the interests of their men and uphold the honor and prestige of the district they represent.

WHAT COLLEGE GIRLS DO.

The Intercollegiate Bureau of Occupations, which finds positions for women college graduates, finds that a very large part of them have literary tastes strongly developed and want positions as editors. This does not probably mean that they desire any such humdrum work as that of news or local editor of newspapers. Probably their ambition runs more into the magazine and book publishing line.

It is a fine and honorable position for an educated woman to edit literary publications. Unfortunately it is a limited field. The Bureau of Occupations appears to be more successful in finding positions for women as secretaries, and in chemical, biological, and industrial lines.

It is always a pity when a young person makes a mistake in the choice of a career at the outset, and finds that she has set her heart on some impossible dream. For that reason too many young people should not be encouraged to seek literary success. It is a terribly crowded field, and only the headliners get generous treatment.

If young women simply must write, the best thing for them is to go direct into newspaper work, no matter if at the state they have to take a humble position. If they have a gift they will get promotion. Ability is recognized in the newspaper world about as quickly as anywhere. Then if a person is really gifted, the chances for becoming a successful writer are increased.

There are of course a certain number of very desirable positions to be had in editorial work in high grade weekly and monthly publications, also as readers of manuscripts for publishing houses. College women very largely fill these places. But a person might apply a dozen times to every publication and publishing business of this class and not find any vacancy. It is a thorny path and a girl must usually spend years in contributing to magazines and weeklies before securing the reputation that would give her the necessary standing.

All the Boy Scouts have to do now is to take part in all parades, attend all flag raisings, distribute circulars of all patriotic meetings, keep the back yard gardens clear from weeds, learn the complete signal code, render first aid to all the injured, and do a good turn daily.

Many people are convinced that while they are away on their vacation their neighbors will esteem it a pleasure to come three times a day and feed the dog and cat.

The automobile owning farmers of the despoiled country still raise some hay to feed the horses owned by the struggling little businesses of the proud metropolitan city.

Although it is impossible for a motorcycle to knock a heavy automobile off the street, many motorists feel called upon in the interest of science to try the experiment.

The theory of some places on how to get their share of automobile business is to make the streets so poor that it will take the motorists all day to get through.

When people light a match to see if there is a leak in the gasoline tank the existence of the same is thoroughly demonstrated to the surviving bystanders.

In spite of the confident and hopeful predictions of failure issued by the pessimists, the amateur gardeners seem to be getting quite substantial results.

Being convinced that the United States Liberty bonds will go higher, many people feel under patriotic obligation to buy the next issue.

Determined not to be accused of being slackers, many of the girls rush to the railroad stations to kiss the soldiers as they go through.

If the guests at summer hotels keep perfectly quiet, the college girl waiters may not discover how ignorant they are.

The people who kick about the hot weather are usually the same ones who a few weeks ago kicked about the late spring.

However, no one has predicted that the coming generation would rather do its own fighting than pay interest bills.

From the size of the government borrowings the coming generation will feel no lack of interest in the war.

The high price of flour is a severe blow to the people who need sugar to make candy with.

It is predicted that congress will be released on suspended sentence about August 15.

In spite of all the fly swatting there are still enough left to fill the currant tins with.

The Daily Novelette

SHERMAN SAID IT.

Cholly Dainty laid his cane carefully on the piano, tenderly adjusted his shirt in the glass, and then, after lovingly pulling his trousers legs sagged dejectedly into a chair. "Achy, Cholly!" exclaimed his mother in alarm. "Whatever makes you look so blue? It's this terrible, terrible war, I suppose." Cholly started at the surfeit of her intuition. "Yes, mother, it is the war," he replied through clenched teeth. "No wonder it depresses you, poor lad," she sighed. "The world has never seen a conflict that can be compared to it. As I remarked in the paper I read the other day, 'The war between the Dooches and Dindrums, yea, to go back still further, between the Brits and the Hundoodles, were only as snow ball fights compared to the struggle in Europe.'"

"It's fearful, mother, teddible!" said Cholly fervently.

"It's fearful, Cholly, and I don't wonder that it makes you men killed than the whole seven years' war between the Kooks and the Serlans."

"I can't bear it, mother," cried Cholly. "For ever drug stores trying to get a tube of Dunoof's mustache wax, only to be told everywhere that they can get no more till after the war! There seems nothing left but to cut off the ends of my mustache completely!"

Bravely repressing her tears of sympathy, his mother gave him a clout on the ear and went to see if her apple pie was burning.

GERMANY IN NAME ONLY; THEY WORK WITH BAKER.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, July 12.—Frankfurter, Keppel and Lippman, Germans sounding these names may be, their owners are working eighteen hours a day helping America beat the Kaiser.

Frankfurter, Keppel and Lippman are Secretary of War Baker's confidential advisers. All left lucrative positions to enter America's service.

Dr. Keppel was dean of Columbia university when the war broke out, but he got a leave of absence, hurried to Washington and joined Baker's staff. His hours are 9 a. m. to 12 midnight.

Frankfurter had war department experience as War Secretary Stinson's right hand man under Taft. When war came he was a lecturer at Harvard and was also handling important cases before the supreme court.

Walter Lippman's chief task with Baker is solving economic problems. He has written several books on economic and economic subjects. He is editing a magazine when Uncle Sam jumped into the ring.

Many conservative advertisers are using classified columns. They find it pays.

PRISONERS TORTURED GERMANS ARE TOLD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, July 12.—German aviators are being told by their superior officers that capture by the French or Americans means torture. Evidence comes from the front today of the enemy's growing lack of air morale and the fear with which he enters combat.

Near the headquarters of the Lafayette Escadrille, Aviator d'Alger, French flyer of an escadrille working in conjunction with the American birdmen, attacked a German biplane. Twenty-five well placed shots wounded the enemy pilot in the arm, the head, the body of the biplane, and became so frightened that he almost lost control of his machine. He hurriedly and ungracefully plumed down to the nearest point and landed.

The story of the German aviator's fear developed when he was questioned by his French and American captors. He explained that, during the combat, his machine gunner had hidden in the body of the biplane to look at the attacking French machine. Before leaving their aerodrome both had been impressed that they would be doomed to hideous physical agony if captured.

He accordingly relieved when told that a prison camp with better food than they might expect in Germany was the worst they could expect.

TRENCH TALES.

"I got it in both legs before we reached the German lines," a youthful Australian was relating his experience at Vimy Ridge, "but Glory be to God, I fell into a shell-hole and lay down as snug as you please in a clever place. I lay there for hours and I heard a great roarin' noise comin' near me. I knew it was a tank and I prayed it would not come near me. But I heard it go roarin' past quite near and then it got stuck, and could hear the 'fighin' and strugglin' to get clear. I never saw it.

"Later in the day a lad I knew came by, slightly wounded. 'Hullo, Peter,' says he, 'when he saw me in the hole.' 'For God's sake have you a water bottle with you?' says I. 'Me legs is both broke and I can't move to get a drink of water. He threw me down his water bottle and it bein' full of run and water, it kept me goin'.' Then it began to rain, and another lad, passin' by, he helped and threw me down a water-proof sheet. Late at night the stretcher-bearers got me. So they were all good Samaritans, the way they helped them that saw me layin' by the wayside."

AFFECTS PROCEDURE IN COUNTY COURTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 12.—Procedure in every county court in Wisconsin is affected by a law which has just gone into effect. While the main feature of this law provides for a direct appeal in contents from the county court to the supreme court of the state, instead of from the county court to the circuit court, and later from the circuit court to the supreme court as heretofore, the chief benefit from the enactment of this law is to come in the elimination of the extra trial and the consequent congestion of litigation in the circuit court.

Another feature of the law provides that where a litigant is entitled to a jury trial, he may have his choice as to whether the case shall be tried in the circuit or the county court.

The law was recommended by the County Judges' association.

AMERICA'S BOARD OF WAR DIRECTORS.

Bernard M. Baruch, a sportsman, and an ardent man, when Bernard M. Baruch, a prominent Wall Street operator, was chosen by Pres. Wilson as head of the committee on raw materials of the Council of National Defense, he brought that ardor to his service to the nation.

Baruch is tall and has a distinguished confidence of bearing, with the vivid eye of genius and the smile of a clown.

Such a good conversationalist is he, and so thoroughly does he understand his subject that he has been able to procure for the government 45,000,000 pounds of copper at a saving of $10,000,000.

No longer does the government take the figure of the lowest bidder, when it makes a large purchase. It puts Bernard M. Baruch on the job. He figures what the material ought to cost, then goes out and gets it at that price. And all without a cent of pay, he's just paying his own expenses. For that matter Baruch pays his own office rent—he has a suite of six or seven rooms—pays the salaries of a dozen of his highest paid clerks, and to cap it all, pays all the living expenses of those clerks while they're in Washington.

WHITTET APPEALS FOR RELIEF OF COAL SITUATION IN STATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 12.—Speaker L. C. Whittet of the Wisconsin legislature today sounded a note of warning of a possible shortage of coal in Wisconsin during the coming winter. He sent a letter to Dr. Charles McCarthy, now connected with Food Dictator Herbert Hoover of Washington, asking that attention be given to the Wisconsin coal situation so that the state of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas might not be short of fuel this winter as a result of using the cars for other purposes.

Speaker Whittet's letter to Doctor McCarthy follows: "I am taking the liberty to write to you relative to a question which has received more or less attention. I am doing this for I see a very grave danger confronting us, unless something is done immediately. I refer to the coal situation.

"As you know, the lake ports, such as Chicago, Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Green Bay, Ashland and Duluth are the feeding points for the great northwest. It is at this time of the year that a stock of coal, particularly anthracite, is put upon the docks in order that the demands from the great northwest can be taken care of.

"You will appreciate that it is necessary to take care of filling the docks while lake navigation is open. In other words, this is the time when this work should be done. I am told that under ordinary conditions from fifty-five to sixty thousand cars are used in transporting coal from the mines to the lake ports for lake shipments, as, for example, Buffalo. I am told that because of the fact that the cars have been withdrawn for other uses there is now employed in this service from fifteen to twenty thousand cars, all of which are not going to the lake ports.

"It would appeal to me that every endeavor should be put forth to fill the docks on the lakes, for the reason that it will be impossible to supply the northwest by rail shipments. Points nearer the mines can undoubtedly be supplied later, when the big demand comes by all rail shipments. "Because of the fact that it is necessary to take advantage of lake transportation this is a question which requires immediate and urgent attention. I can see great suffering for our people in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas unless steps are taken to take care of this coal situation. It is unnecessary for me to speak of the influence which such a situation would have upon the war question. People would naturally feel that their interests at home were being unnecessarily sacrificed for other interests which are far remote. "I know that you are a busy man, with many different questions to occupy your attention, yet this coal situation is so imperative that I feel governmental authorities should take cognizance of it and endeavor to see that the docks on the lake ports are filled with coal. I shall appreciate your thought and suggestion upon the matter."

COMPANY "M" WILL MOBILIZE ON SUNDAY MORNING AT ARMORY

Local Guard Company Still Need Seven Men to Complete Quota.

—Dance Nets $75.
Mobilization of Company M will take place Sunday morning, July 15th, at eight o'clock, at the local armory. Orders to this effect have been issued to all members of the unit, in compliance with the federal orders calling out the national guard, and the state at this time. The men will be called together at that time for training in this city prior to entrainment for the military drill period. As soon as sufficient fatigue can be secured for them, and which is not expected to be later than Wednesday of next week.

Regular daily routine of drill and training has been arranged by Captain Caldwell, and the entire company will be on duty almost continuously during the drill period. Two hours each will be scheduled for both morning and afternoon with other activities filling in the rest of the day.

Any man who lives in the city will be permitted to sleep at their homes, but must be at the armory from early morning until retreat is sounded in the evening. Special accommodations for the out of town members are being prepared at the armory, and arrangements have been made to feed these men at a local cafe, on the ration money which will be paid to them.

For some weeks general orders governing the rules of camp life, the duties at mobilization time, the conduct of a soldier while in transit, and in other phases of military service have been posted by Captain Caldwell, and no difficulties or confusion is looked for among the men in the rush of a hurried departure. When the enlistment of three more men, DeLoss Reynolds and Ray Hendrickson of Orfordville and Ray Hendrickson of the company, the enrollment of the company is 142. Seven men are needed to fill the company to full war strength, the number authorized before mobilization. Janesville is expected to furnish these men. The company is in excellent condition for the local company, and the officers are looking to the young men of Janesville to furnish a full quota. Enlist now.

Excellent music, a large attendance, and a universal good time were reported by those who attended the farewell dance given last evening at the armory for the benefit of the company fund. The orchestra, which was of ten pieces, and was the donation of the Bower City Band, won the praise of the dancers and the spectators alike for the charm and skill with which they played. Public acknowledgment of the band's kindness is expressed by Captain Caldwell. The receipts from the affair brought about several hundred dollars for the company fund, a sum which will help materially within the course of the next few days when the boys establish themselves in the training quarters at Camp Douglas.

HEALTH AID COURSE IS OPEN TO WOMEN

Rock County Young Women May Be Interested in Scholarships Offered by State Defense Boards.

Rock county young women may be interested in a health aid course which has been arranged by the state council of defense. F. P. Starr, secretary of the county defense council, has outlined the instruction and any persons who contemplate taking up the work may communicate with him or the state council. One unit has already been organized at Milwaukee with seventeen counties represented. It is probable that other units will be formed. The course contemplates six months intensive training in several of the large hospitals of the state. The young women who take it will be qualified to take care of the civilian sick which will allow the release of registered nurses for Red Cross and army service without causing undue suffering and hardship at home. The state council of defense has provided a number of scholarships for pupils who will be furnished with board, lodging and laundry and pay at the rate of $10 a month for the incidental expenses of uniforms, travel and other needed articles. After completing the course the health aids will be required to sign an agreement to attend the sick in Wisconsin for a period of two years, at pay and living expenses, with board, lodging and laundry.

NEW FIRM BUYS OUT J. H. BURNS COMPANY

L. Borzak and Son Take Over Interests of Local Firm on South River St.

What has long been known as the J. H. Burns Company will from this date on be The Janesville Dry Goods and Clothing store. The company has been completed and the new concern are making their first public announcement in tonight's Gazette. The elder Mr. Borzak has been directly connected with the dry goods business for over a quarter of a century, being on the road for a number of the larger eastern firms and has an extensive knowledge of dry goods. The younger Mr. Borzak will be in direct charge of the business, and the store will be at the store at all times.

A progressive policy has been decided upon which will be in the best interests of the store's patrons. The retiring firm, J. H. Burns & Son, will maintain a temporary office at 22 S. River St. for the conduct of their real estate and insurance business until permanent quarters can be arranged for.

SEEK WOMAN AGENT WHO STOLE SHOES FROM HOME.

The police this afternoon were engaged in search of the city for a woman agent who, members of the Kalkuska family on Eastern avenue alleged to the police officers, stole a pair of shoes from their home at 12:45 noon. The woman was seen in the street, dressed in a black and white checked suit and wore a black hat with white flowers.

SEARCH HERF FOR FAMILY WHO JUMPED BOARD BILL.

The Stoughton police at midnight last night asked the Janesville department to be on the lookout for a man, about 32, his wife, about twenty, who had an eighteen months old baby, who left Stoughton at 11 o'clock in a closed automobile after failure to pay their hotel bill. Up to noon today the parties were not found in Janesville.

ATTACK ON MINIMUM TEACHERS' WAGE LAW

Resolution Offered at School Board To Veto Law.

Attacking the law by the state legislature recently passed for the purpose of raising the minimum wage for rural teaching, the school board members of this city, at the session of the school board yesterday, passed a resolution to inform the state legislature that the school board of this city is opposed to the law.

Among other matters which received considerable animated discussion by the board members was the matter of withholding the district portion of the seven-cent increase in the salary of the teachers.

The resolution was defeated by a vote of 10 to 5. The resolution was defeated by a vote of 10 to 5.

LITTLE BOY DROWNS WHILE SWIMMING IN THE LOWER RIVER

Earl Preston Sink When He Releases Hold on End of Boat—Fire Truck Breaks Axle.

Earl Preston, ten-year-old son of Charles Preston, of sixty-seven South Franklin street, was drowned shortly after one o'clock this afternoon while bathing in the river back of the Arthur Culver home, on South River street. The little boy was swimming with his older brother, Pearl, and playing about on an old boat moored at the river's edge. He had been hanging on the rear end of the boat in deep water when a fire truck, released his hold and sunk.

He could not swim and his brother, becoming frightened, did nothing to save him. The fire truck, a little playmate, was summoned by the father, and upon learning of the tragedy called in neighbors and passers by, who at once summoned the police.

Police Sergeant William Gower, who arrived but a moment after the call came with the patrol, found the little body a few feet from shore after five minutes of dragging. Though resuscitation was tried life was extinct; the body had been in the water nearly half an hour.

The father, Charles Preston, a player for the Fifield Lumber company, was miffed and came at once to the scene of the accident. He was strained down completely under the strain of the tragedy. The mother, Pearl, was unable to restrain her grief. The mother of the boy, Pearl, was unable to restrain her grief.

The Great War and You

Everywhere we hear people asking what is to be the duty of those who stay at home—and what shall we expect in the way of hard times, etc.

We are trying to study these questions for our patrons so that we can give them advice that is safe.

Just now we want to say that everything points to good business and very busy times for us all. No one should get alarmed over general business conditions.

DROP WILLIS COLE AS CARD MANAGER; USE FIELD LEADER

Milton Man Released And Directors
Plan to Run Team With Field
Captain in Charge During Games.

Willis Cole, manager of the Janesville Cardinals since the Power City placed a baseball team in the Central State league was released today and indications are that the Cardinals will finish the season's schedule under the co-operative direction of President "Bill" Langdon and Secretary Peter C. Kuhn. It is tentatively proposed to do away with the manager and appoint a field captain to lead the players in the remaining games.

"Pepper" Delaney of Chicago, the Cardinals catcher, and "Speedy" Eberts, right fielder, who is hanging his Kelly on Janesville, bat racks for the season, are mentioned as possible candidates for the field captaincy. Either the club directors believe, would make a great field leader.

Cole's inability to secure results and a general antagonism between him and members of the team are the reasons for his release and in addition he was adverse to leading the team when his business interfered with the work.

Sunday Game Important.
The battle here Sunday between the Cards and Fort Atkinson's Rebels is a crucial game from the Janesville outlook. The result will determine whether the Cards jump upward a couple of yards off Watertown's lead or whether they will fall back.
Should the Cards win then they will move into a tie with the Fort for third place and each team will be close behind Jefferson which team is close behind the Gossings.

Should Jefferson lose and the Cardinals beat the Fort then the latter two teams, tied for third place, will be but a game behind the sausage makers.

President Langdon and Secretary Kuhn are working hard to beat the Fort. The secretary announced today that "Plague" Hanson had been signed up to appear with Feine, the former Sox, to pitch. This news will be greeted with pleasure by Janesville fans as Hanson's "rep" has been spread broadcast with his playing with the Beloit Fairies and in the game against Watertown Sunday last.

LIMA SLANDER CASE TO BE AIRED HERE

Vera Dowse Complains Jennie Watson Injured Her Reputation by Malicious and Verbal Defamation.
A "peppery" slander action started in municipal court yesterday when Jennie Watson of the town of Lima, denied allegations of the state's complaint and warrant that she damaged the reputation or caused remorse to Vera Dowse, also of the township, when Mrs. Watson demanded examination on the charge. It was set for July 27, two weeks from tomorrow.

Vera Dowse in her complaint alleges that Mrs. Watson harmed her reputation by statements of her physical condition and of relating of an instance of a hotel and married man. The neighborhood from where the contesting parties come is considerably wrought up over the case and already the trend of gossip evidences that factions are originating. It is almost certain that a big gallery will hear the testimony at the examination, if the case is not settled beforehand. Hal K. Martin of Edgerton has been retained to defend Mrs. Watson.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Actresses, and this certainly includes the queens of moving pictures, are among the most stylishly dressed women in the world. Their clothes are the last word in the world of fashion. If this were not true, actresses might suffer in popularity, and of course public applause is what they live for. Hence women in large numbers were present at the recent fashion show in New York which was attended by the feminine stage. Many of the two most fashionable gowned women at the show were Ann Pennington and Hazel Dawn. The accompanying picture of these two screen stars, taken at the show, should therefore be of special interest to feminine readers.

THEIR AMBITIONS
Bessie Love, who lives a seemingly secluded life, dreams of the day when she will be well enough acquainted with the stars of the screen to be able to ring them on the telephone and address them by their first names.
Ruth Stonehouse, who is never without one or more house guests in her Laurel Canyon home, looks forward to the ownership of a house so big and so open to all her friends that she won't know just who happens to be her guests until she meets them at breakfast.

Kathlyn Williams intends some day to establish an "old animal home."
Dot Farley believes she would be perfectly contented with life and everything in reference thereto if she could convince her director over at the film company's stage at the studio that a folding desk and portable typewriter should become part of the equipment of the Dot Farley sets. For then Miss Farley could dash off her scenario ideas readily and frequently.
Though the author of two hundred scripts, she aspires to lay claim to five hundred.

Anna Luther wishes she might lose her title, "The Fifth Avenue Girl." It is her hope that sometime she may be cast in a ragged girl role, but the fact that she is one of the smartest dressers on the screen seems to preclude her from the ragged variety of portrayal.

Jane and Katherine Lee, small of size but internationally big in reputation, two of the best known and most loved of motion picture children, have been rewarded by William Fox with a five-reel production in which they will have the stellar roles.

Rumor has it that William S. Hart, the duke edition of cowboy portrayals, is to be starred under the Paramount banner. This perhaps will mean that "Good Old Bill" will work in the same studio with Mary Pickford, Gertrude Arar, George M. Cohan and others.

MANY CHANGES IN NATIONAL GUARDS ON EVE OF WAR

Company M Will Automatically Become Part of First Battalion by Promotion of Major Garlock.

There will be many changes in the staff and line officers of First, Second and Third regiments during the summer months, transfers and the organization of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth regiments of infantry and the new battalions and cavalry regiment. The First regiment loses two of its majors by transfer to other regiments, Major John E. Schneller of Neenah becoming lieutenant colonel of the Fourth infantry and Major Fish of Milwaukee becoming colonel of the Signal corps. This will probably mean the promotion of the two senior captains of regiment, Captain Buck of Beloit and Captain Piasecki of Milwaukee to majorships, promote Major Garlock to command of the First Battalion, from the third, of which Company M is a member, taking his battalion with him.

There is a possibility that Garlock, who formerly commanded the Fort Atkinson company and is a veteran of the Spanish war, becoming lieutenant colonel which would mean further promotion along the line and might make Buck the senior major of the regiment, also place Captain Caldwell, commander of the local company well up in the line of captains with promise of promotion to a majorship in the immediate future.
Dispatches from Madison state that many important commissions were signed by the governor today, including those of colonels of three new regiments, the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth. The men who will lead the six Wisconsin infantry regiments in action are:
Col. John P. Joachim of Madison, in command of the First regiment.
Col. Wilbur M. Lee of Oconto, in command of the Second regiment.
Col. John Truener of Mauston, in command of the Third regiment.
Col. John E. Schneller of Neenah, in command of the Fourth regiment.
Col. R. E. McCoy of Sparta, lawyer and gun figure in the National Guard in command of the Fifth regiment.
Col. Peter F. Piasecki of Milwaukee, in command of the Sixth regiment.
Col. Marshall Cousins of Eau Claire, during its service on the Mexican border, in command of the Sixth regiment. Commissioned today.

Other commissions signed by the governor follow:
William Y. Burton of Hudson, to be lieutenant colonel of infantry, Third regiment.
John B. Schneller of Neenah, to be lieutenant colonel of infantry, Fourth regiment.
Edgar A. Firth of Chippewa Falls, to be major, Fourth infantry.
Anton E. Martin of Neillsville, to be major, Fourth infantry.
Robert Connor of Marshfield, to be major, Fourth infantry.
William N. Jensen of Sheboygan, to be first lieutenant of infantry.
August Wolf of Sheboygan, to be second lieutenant of infantry.
Ernest Wood of Edgerton, to be first lieutenant of infantry.
A. M. Barnes of Shawano, to be first lieutenant of infantry.
Leo C. Raddat of Shawano, to be second lieutenant of infantry.
William J. Jensen of Hartford, to be first lieutenant of infantry.
Nicholas M. Schantz of Hartford, to be second lieutenant of infantry.
Leo A. Schoenhofen of Crandon, to be captain of infantry.

Wisconsin's one more is in the lead in the records at Washington. Gov. Philip today received an acknowledgment of this fact in answer to a telegram sent July 7 reporting the completion of the conscription work in the state.
His telegram follows:
"Provost Marshal-General, Washington, D. C.
"Wisconsin's record of June 7 that all copies of registration cards had been received at state headquarters before or during July 7 and required registration list made to provost marshal-general, made full returns by telegram, confirmed by mail, of guard strength and credits, classes A and B to apply in reduction of draft quota and has received notice of discrepancy. Information requested what remains undone."
"E. L. PHILLIP, Governor."
The answer, which was received late today, follows:
"Gov. E. L. Phillip, Madison, Wis.
"Reference your telegram July 11.

CLOSE N. BLUFF ST.; ISLAND ROUTE READY

All Traffic Now Being Routed Via Goose Island to Permit Street Improvement Work Unhindered.

North Bluff street between North First street and the railway viaduct is closed to traffic and automobilists and others entering and leaving the city are being routed over Goose Island.
Today Superintendent of Streets Commissioner P. J. Goodman had the road fill from North Bluff street to the island, over the gas-house pond, in condition to permit night travel with safety. Electric lights were placed today to guard and illuminate the extension of North Main street on the island and to show the proper place to take on the road to reach North Bluff street, and vice versa.
Mr. Goodman plans to fence the eighteen foot driveway across the pond to further lessen accident possibilities as the water is from eight to ten feet deep there and a rigor automobile going off either bank might result in serious tragedy.

BLIND BAGGAGE RIDER TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

An elderly tramp was taken into custody by Officer Hardy this morning while trying to ride the blinds of a north-bound passenger train. He was hardly able to balance himself when removed from between the cars, as a result of having indulged in too much freely. From the color of one eye, it looked as if he had come in contact with the plunger of an enemy companion. He was taken to the police station and allowed to sober up.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Do you ask, but what I could have them at heart if a fellow really loves a girl, but she is not his? She loves him dearly and sends him letters saying so, but she says he thinks too much of his good times (although he is nearly thirty) to marry. He calls her a dear little girl but goes around with other girls just the same but makes good money so he could marry if he wanted to. Please tell me what you think of this kind of a man?

(2) If a fellow has another girl and is away and it is all right to correspond with still another girl who thinks she loves him? Please tell me how often.

(3) If he really loved the other girl do you think he could last out to another girl for her? Then tell her of this other girl after the way she is and then finally leave this girl and break two hearts? This man is a man of sterling principles, very well educated and gentlemanly in every way, except that he drinks to a certain extent and likes to have his good times occasionally, although he is not a drunkard, in fact, he is so well-mannered that he is liked by everyone, and he is also very tender-hearted and well-educated.

(4) Now he has left me and my heart is broken, too. I don't know what to do. Please tell me just what your opinion of this fellow is. He told me himself that his motive was "the woman and song." But he went with me for a year and never asked to kiss me, but respected me in every way. He said he never put himself in a class of men of principles. He hurt me so, but I never let him know. I just gripped and tore it. I have so many other fellows whom I know I would have to

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt will answer personally all letters pertaining to matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper, if accompanied by a two cent stamp.)

A bride need not wear a veil if she does not wish to do so, as a pretty white gown fulfills every requirement. But wear everything white, shoes, gloves, belt, sash and lace. A hat is not to be worn with this dress.

MRS. K. A woman should wear a hat to church, whether to morning or to evening services. She should always wear gloves in public without gloves, if she is wearing a hat. It is customary in the suburbs, or in small towns and resorts, for women to go without hats during the hot weather, especially in the evenings, and in such circumstances one would not wear gloves. But these cases are exceptional, and a lady usually wears a hat on the street, whether walking or driving, and gloves of some sort must be worn also.

FRID: A gentleman does not walk between two ladies on the street. He takes the outside of the walk, and the older of the ladies walks beside him, and the younger next to her. In the evening the order is the same, and offers his arm only to the older lady.

Coffee. Luncheon
Cheese Sandwiches Fried in Butter.
Tomato and Cucumber Salad.
Sallines. Dinner.
Roast Rump. Brown Gravy.
Plain Boiled Potatoes Carrots.
White Bread. Cold Slaw.
Cherry Pie. Butter.
Coffee.

MEATLESS SOUP
Place a large tablespoon of butter and same amount of any kind of shortening or fat together with two or three sliced onions and a leaf of parsley or celery leaves in the soup kettle and let fry gently five minutes; then add three pints water, level teaspoon salt and pinch of paprika or pepper. Boil just a few minutes and you have a soup stock to which may be added one and one-half cups rice, pearl barley, two cups broken macaroni or spaghetti, or boughten or home made noodles.
Or, in place of these, tomatoes or sliced potatoes.
Just before serving add one pint milk and let come to scald.
If potatoes are used, one egg beaten in a little cold water, a large spoonful of peanut butter softened in a little hot water, will add to food value.
This will serve five or six persons.

THE TABLE
Roast Mutton, English Style—Season the roast of mutton with salt and pepper, put in baking pan, pour over it a mixture of one cup vinegar, four cups of boiling water. Roast till over half done. Mix one tablespoon flour and one-half glass currant jelly, or apple-currant jelly till it forms a smooth paste. Spread this over your roast like butter on bread. The roast should be basted often till done. The paste will be golden brown when done right.
Sauce the dressing with one egg.
Corn Meal Dumplings—Corn meal dumplings are fine in bean soup or meat stew. Use half as much white flour as usual, the other half corn meal. Make exactly as usual.

New Salad Dressing—For a change in salad dressing mix one teaspoon butter with the same amount of dressing. Mix with a smooth and more dressing and thin with milk. Another change which will be found to be delicious is one tablespoon catsup, one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon salt and two tablespoons olive oil. This time of the year people should eat more of such thing instead of heavy foods.

Make Without Eggs—Two large tablespoons butter, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup dark molasses, one tablespoon mixed spices, two thirds cup buttermilk, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour. Mix the butter, sugar and molasses, then add the buttermilk, mix thoroughly, then add the flour and soda, mix again. Bake in a quick oven about forty minutes. This is excellent food with caramel icing made as follows: two cups brown sugar, one cup milk, one teaspoon butter. Boil till waxy, take from fire, beat till cool, and spread.

Near Meat—Crumb four slices of toasted dry baker's bread. Beat one egg and mix with the crumbs. Mix the tablespoons peanut butter, season with salt and pepper, mix with crumbs and fry in butter. This is very nice in place of meat.
Sour Cream Pie—One cup sour cream, three-fourths cup raisins, put through meat grinder, one scant cup sugar, yolk of three eggs, white of one egg beaten stiff and added at the last, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves. Bake with no upper crust, using whites of the eggs and two tablespoons powdered sugar as meringue top of pie.
Strawberry Cake—One cup sugar, two cups flour, one-half cup butter (or butter and lard), two eggs, one cup canned strawberries, one teaspoon (stroke measure) soda, one cup berries, one-half teaspoon baking powder in the flour (well sifted). This batter will be thin, but don't add any more flour. Bake in two layers and put together with your favorite icing.

TODAY'S THRIFT THOUGHT
An Economical Way to Peel Potatoes.
Drop washed potatoes in a vessel of rapidly boiling water, allow to remain ten minutes. Remove and strip the thin skin as when potatoes are peeled after thorough cooking in boiling water. The potatoes will still be practically raw and may be handled like raw peeled potatoes in preparing any dish, as scalloped, French and German potatoes, potato chips, etc.

The Business of Living

Once More Eleanor Hears of Her Husband's Double.

"Well, Jack has a job," announced Eleanor as they took their places at the Blacks' table.

"He's the stuff!" boomed Mr. Black in his deep bass voice.

"But he must go to high school next June," said Mr. Black in a saddened tone.

"Don't worry about Jack, Mrs. Filmore. He is one of the boys who will go to night school of talk correspondence courses. There are fifty ways to get an education if only you have the desire. Eh, Jack?"

"Come, Pa, we don't have to settle the whole career of the boy tonight. Dish the dinner. Jack is hungry; he has been traveling all day, on train and on foot," Mrs. Black was saying with energy, enough to drive postholes.

"I have wanted to ask about a remark the detective made in one of his letters to me; he said you had seen the man who looked so much like Douglas, at the Olympic club." Eleanor turned toward the hostess. Mrs. Black seemed embarrassed.

"Now, don't pay any attention to any of her erratic visions," Mr. Black thrust this irascible remark into the conversation with the evident intention of blocking further inquiry. "She got us all stirred up here, and she and the detective puffy-footed up and down in front of the Olympic club a whole evening over nothing. I would not let her write to you about it, and get you all excited, and I have my opinion of a detective that would fill up good paper with twaddle like that."

"Well, take it from me, that detective is a clumsy muddler, and if he had not taken your money and given you no service, I fumed the host."

"I suppose you think you are doing her kindness," Mrs. Black indicated Eleanor with a disengaged thumb, by filing the air with your fault-finding, but I think you had better let her eat her dinner in peace."

"A stiff silence ensued. Most of the conversation of these worthy people was filled with mutual imitations for each was very set in his way, and their ways were diametrically opposed. Yet under all the crabbed speeches each was sincerely attached to the other."

"There is no danger of my not appreciating the wholehearted sympathy of both," Eleanor was trying to pour oil on the ruffled conversation. "If I do believe I could have kept going without the supporting kindness of my friends."

"It is little enough," said Mr. Black in a mollified tone. (To be continued.)

Do Not Let the Telephone Cord Get Wet

A wet telephone cord will cause a short circuit and interrupt your service. This is the cause of a great many cases of telephone trouble.

Frequently a wet umbrella is carelessly laid against the cord, or a glass of water is spilled over it, or the cord is accidentally dropped into an ink-well, thus putting the telephone out of service.

By protecting your telephone cord from moisture you keep your telephone in good working order.

The Time to Cure Bright's

The time to cure Bright's disease is before you are sure you have it. Nephritis or Bright's disease is an insidious chronic affection which undermines health and unmistakably manifests itself long before the analysis discloses albumin, casts and other indications of kidney degeneration.

A man or woman doomed to have chronic nephritis (Bright's disease) experiences many symptoms of digestive disturbance, poor circulation, anemia, poor sleep, slight shortness of breath, headaches, and other supposedly minor troubles for some years before the true nature of the disease is recognized.

When novel symptoms begin at or near middle age, it is a common error to make an attempt to obtain relief by resorting to all sorts of experimental self-medication, and to "over-work," "worry," "neurasthenia," "family cares." The truth is the degeneration which makes middle age years fatal than any other period of life—cancer, apoplexy, heart disease and Bright's disease—all produce vague and easily misinterpreted symptoms in the beginning.

Bright's disease is a very gradual change from normal to pathological.

The Real Adventure

A NOVEL

By Henry Kitchell Webster

"I don't think it would be fair," she said, and she found difficulty in speaking at all because of a sudden disposition of her teeth to chatter—"I don't think it would be fair for me to take all the profit and you take all the risk."

"Well, I can't take any profit, that's clear enough," she said; and she noticed now a change of amusement in his voice. "You see I'm retained—body and soul—to put this production over. I can't make money out of those fellows on the side. But you're not retained. You're employed as a member of the chorus. And, so far, you're not even paid for the work you're doing. So long as you work to my satisfaction there, on the stage, nothing more can be asked of you. As for the risk, I don't believe it's serious. I don't think I'll fall down on the job, and I don't believe Goldsmith and Black will throw away a chance to save some money."

And then he pressed her for an immediate decision. The job would be a good deal of a scramble at best, as the time was short. They had reached the Randolph street end of the avenue, and a policeman, like Moses cleaving the sea, had opened a way through the tide of motors for a throng of pedestrians.

"Come across here," said Galbraith, taking her by the arm and steering this current with her. "We've got to have a minute of shelter to finish this up in," and he led her into the north lobby of the public library. The stale, baked air of the place almost made them grieve. But, anyway, it was quiet and altogether deserted. They could hear themselves think in there, he said, and led the way to a marble bench alongside the staircase.

Rose unprepared her veil and, to his surprise, because of course she was going in a minute, put it into her sister's pocket. But, curiously enough, the sight of her face only intensified an impression that had been struck upon him during the last part of their walk—the impression that she was a long way off. It wasn't the familiar contemplative mood, either. There was an active, eager excitement about it that made it more beautiful than he had ever seen it before. But it was as if she were looking at something he couldn't see—listening to words he couldn't hear.

"Well," he said a little impatiently, "are you going to do it?"

And at that the glow of her was turned fairly upon him. "Yes," she said. "I'm going to do it. I suppose I mustn't thank you," she went on, "because you say it isn't anything you're doing for me. But it is—a great thing for me—greater than I could tell you. And I won't fail. You needn't be afraid."

TWO KINDS OF PATRIOTS.

He counted out a hundred and twenty dollars, which he handed over to her. She folded it and put it away in her wristbag. The glow of her hadn't faded, but once more it was turned on something—or someone—else. It wasn't until he rose a little abruptly from the marble bench that she roused herself with a shake of the head, arose too, and once more faced him.

"You're right about our having to hurry," she said, and before he could find the first of the words he wanted, she had given him that curt farewell nod which from the first had stirred and warmed him, and turned away toward the door.

And she had never seen what was fairly shining in his face.

She couldn't, of course, have missed a thing as plain as that but for a complete preoccupation of thought and feeling that would have left her oblivious to almost anything that could happen to her.

The flaming vortex of thoughts, hopes, desires which enveloped her was so intense as almost to evoke a sense of the physical presence of the subject of them—that big, powerful-minded, clean-souled husband of hers, who loved her so rapturously, and who had driven her away from him because that rapture was the only thing he would share with her.

Since she had left his house and begun this new life of hers, she had, as best she could, been fighting him out of her thoughts altogether. She had shrunk from anything that carried association of him with it. That all thoughts and memories of him must necessarily be painful, she had taken for granted.

But with this sudden lighting up of hope, she flung the closed door wide and called her husband back into her thoughts. This hard thing that she was going to do—this thing that meant sleepless nights, and feverishly active days—was an expression simply of her love for him—a sacrificial offering to be laid before the shrine of him in her heart.

Yet, the fact that Rose's heart was racing and her nerves were tingling with a newly welcomed sense of her lover's spiritual presence, did not prevent her flying along west on Randolph street and south again on the west side of State, with a very clearly visualized purpose. Half an hour later she halted a passing cab and deposited in it one dressmaking form, a huge bundle of paper cambric—in black, white and washed-out blue, and her own weary but still excited and exultant self.

It was after eight o'clock when she reached her room. Rehearsal was at eight-thirty and she had had nothing to eat since noon. But she stole the time, nevertheless, to tear the wrappings off her "form" and gaze on its respectable nakedness for two or three minutes with a contemplative eye. Then, reluctantly—it was the first time she had left that room with reluctance—she turned out the light and hurried off to the little lunch room that lay on the way to the dressing room.

It was during that first rehearsal, which she so narrowly missed being late for, that she got the general schemes for both sets of costumes. She began studying the girls for their individual peculiarities of style. Each one of the costumes she made was going to be for a particular girl.

At last when a shout from Galbraith aroused her to the fact that she had missed an entrance cue altogether, in her entranced absorption in these visions of hers, and had caused that unpardonable thing, a stage wait, she resolutely clamped down the lid upon her imagination and, until they were dismissed, devoted herself to the rehearsal.

But the pressure kept mounting higher and higher, and she found herself furiously impatient to get away, back to her own private wonderland, the squalid little room down the street, that had three bolts of cambric in it and a dressmaker's mannequin—the raw materials for her magic! Rose couldn't draw a bit. She hadn't the faintest impulse to make a beginning by putting a picture down on paper and making a dress from it afterward. She couldn't have told just why she had bought those three shades of paper cambric.

What she had felt, of course, at the very outset, was the need of something to indicate, roughly, the darks and lights in her design. And, short of the wild extravagance of slashing into the fabrics themselves and making her mistakes at their expense, she could think of nothing better than the scheme she chose.

Rehearsal was dismissed a little early that night, and she was back in her room by eleven. Arrived there, she took off her outer clothes, sat down cross-legged on the floor, and went to work.

When at last, with a little sigh, and a tremulously smiling acknowledgment of fatigue, she got up and looked at her watch. It was four o'clock in the morning. She'd had one of those experiences of which every artist can remember a few in his life, when it is impossible for anything to go wrong; when the vision miraculously betters itself in the execution; when the only difficulty is that which the hands have in the purely mechanical operation of keeping up.

CHAPTER XIX.

Success—And a Recognition.

There is a kaleidoscopic character about the events of the ten days or so preceding the opening performance of most musical comedies which would make a sober chronicle of them seem fantastically incredible. This law of nature made no exception in the case of "The Girl Upstairs." There were rehearsals which ran so smoothly and swiftly that they'd have done for performances; there were others so abominable that the bare idea of presenting the mess resulting from six weeks' toil, before the people who had paid money to see it, was a nightmare.

Of all the persons directly, or even remotely, affected by this nerve-shattering confusion, Rose was perhaps the least perturbed. The only thing that really mattered to her was the successful execution of those twelve costumes. The phantasmagoria at North End hall was a regrettable, but necessary, interruption of her more important activities.

She awakened automatically at half-past seven and was down-town by half-past eight, to do whatever shopping the work of the previous day revealed the need of.

At nine-thirty—an unheard-of hour in the theater—the watchman at the Globe let her in at the stage door, and Rose had half an hour, before the arrival of the wardrobe mistress and her assistant, for looking over the work done since she had left for rehearsal the day before.

She liked this quiet, cavernous old barn of a place down under the Globe stage; liked it when she had it to herself before the two sewing women came and later, when, with a couple of sheets spread out on the floor, she cut and basted according to her cambric patterns, keeping ahead of the flying needles of the other two. After her own little room, the mere sparseness of it seemed almost noble.

In keeping with the good luck which had attended everything that happened in connection with this first venture of hers, she was able to tell Galbraith that both sets of costumes were finished and ready to try on on the very day he announced that the next rehearsal would be held at ten tomorrow at the Globe.

She persuaded the girls to wait until all six were dressed in the afternoon frocks and until she herself had had a chance to give each of them a final inspection and to make a few last touches and readjustments. Then they all trooped out on the stage and stood in a row, turned about, walked here and there, in obedience to Galbraith's instructions shouted from the back of the theater.

It was dark out there and disconcertingly silent. The glow of two cigars indicated the presence of Goldsmith and Black in the middle of a little knot of other spectators.

The only response Rose got—the only index to the effect her labors had produced was the tone of Galbraith's voice. "All right," he shouted, "Go and put on the others."

There was another silence after they had fled out on the stage again, clad this time in the evening gowns—a hollow, heart-constricting silence, almost literally sickening. But it lasted only a moment. Then:

"Will you come down here, Miss Dane?" called Galbraith.

There was a slight, momentary, but perfectly palpable shock accompanying these words—a shock felt by everybody within the sound of his voice. Because the director had not said, "Dane, come down here," he had said: "Will you come down here, Miss Dane?" And the thing amounted, so rigid is the etiquette of musical comedy, to an accolade. The people on the stage and in the wings didn't know what she had done, nor in what character she was about to appear, but they did know she was, from now on, something besides a chorus girl.

Rose obediently crossed the runway and walked up the aisle to where Galbraith stood, with Goldsmith and Black, waiting for her. She was feeling a little numb and empty.

Galbraith, as she came, held out a hand to her. "I congratulate you, Miss Dane," he said. "They're admirable. With all the money in the world, I wouldn't ask for anything handsomer."

The rest of it didn't matter to Rose—the more guarded but nevertheless cordial approval of the two owners, who had yet to make sure on the figures; and the details of settlement, which left her more than a hundred dollars' profit, even after she had deducted the hundred she owed Rodney. The point—the point—settled by Galbraith's praise—was that she had succeeded.

It was, on the whole, a good bargain on both sides. But Goldsmith and Black came back next day and drove another bargain, principally to their own advantage.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

"Your honor," informed the police man as he pointed to the prisoner, "he refused to rise while the band played 'The Star Spangled Banner.'"

"I did not recognize the tune," explained the culprit hastily. "Now, my dear man," said the judge sympathetically, "let me whistle it for you, so that hereafter you may distinguish it."

The judge whistled the melody and the prisoner listened intently. When his honor had finished, the defendant explained generously: "Your honor, if the band had played the tune as you whistled it, I would not be here today."

"Discharged!" interrupted the well pleased judge.

"But the band would," concluded the man in an undertone as he hastily retired from the courtroom.

The manager of a factory makes a practice of giving all his old clothes to one of the laborers, who is in poor circumstances.

Four months ago the manager told him to call at his office, as he had a cast-off coat for him.

When he examined the gift at home he found in one of the pockets a $5 bill. After a little study he decided to say nothing about it—just then, anyway.

A month later he went up to the manager and the following conversation took place:

"I've just called to tell you sir, that in one of the pockets of that coat you gave me a month ago I found a $5 bill."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the astonished manager; "and you mean to tell me, my good, honest workman, that you've brought the money back?"

"Yes, sir," answered the laborer. "Not exactly. I've called for another coat."

Women Enlist to Lead Girls' Canning Clubs.

Wisconsin women are still filling the ranks of food conservators, many of them volunteering for the class of work in which they can do great good, that of directing newly organized canning clubs. Scores of independent clubs are springing up in all parts of the state, in addition to those regularly enrolled with the young people's agricultural clubs, in charge of T. L. Beswick and Miss Elizabeth Amery, University of Wisconsin.

Local leaders are needed to make the clubs a permanent asset, it has been found. Some of the women who are now engaged in caring for these girls' canning organizations, pledged to study and demonstrate the official government methods of saving perishable foods from gardens and orchards, are:

District Leaders—Miss Anne F. Hoen, Edgerton; Mrs. F. F. Gorham, Beloit; Mrs. H. J. Rueping, Fond du Lac; Miss Harriet Rutson, Sparta; L. A. Markham, Janesville.

Local Club Directors—Miss Lone Linter, Forest Junction; Miss Hazel Merrill, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Carol Baldwin, Green Lake; Miss Lilian Otto, West Allis; Miss Martha Saffron, Mountain; Mrs. R. C. Gibbs, Stockton; Miss Gertrude Britz, Stevens Point; Miss Gladys Canary, Footville; Miss Mary McLaughlin, Janesville; Mrs. C. W. Wamaker, Misses Madge Wilson, Jessica North, Edgerton; Miss Grace Burn, Walworth; Mrs. C. Armfield, Armstrong; Mrs. A. F. C. Schmidt, North Crandon; Miss Lois Goan, Millville; Miss Joanna Beebe, Princeton; Miss Myrtle Howen, Amherst; Miss Nora Tover, Stockton; Miss Lena Driver, Milton Junction; Miss Cora Rime, Orfordville; Mrs. H. W. Shel-oski, Miss Louise Schumacher, Genoa Junction; Miss Irene Elridge, Tomah; Miss Theresa Dunbar, Farmers Valley; Mrs. Fred Sherman, Miss Edith Raymond, Miss Hazel Edgerton, Miss Teresa McDonough, Edgerton. Adams, Juneau and Marquette counties mobilized for action in this line last week, and a number of new clubs were started there. Sheboygan county clubs will form during the week of July 17-20.

By mutual agreement with the state leaders and with the state council of defense bureaus these clubs will advance the idea of fixing July 20 as a date on which to assemble all available containers for canning and drying foods.

Badger Poultrymen Keep Busy. July and August are always months of great activity in well managed Wisconsin poultry plants. Some of the things which take up the spare time of the men who are adding to the state's meat and egg supply by judicious attention to business principles are, according to workers at the poultry department, University of Wisconsin:

"They separate the males and females to allow more rapid, unrestricted development. Pullets are placed in the orchard or other shady corner.

"Care is taken to allow enough roosting room at night. Two-pound chicks cannot be accommodated in the same coop that served for small chicks. Crowding at night induces sweating, which weakens the flock.

"Watch is kept for lice and mites. Cleaning and spraying the coops is an absolute necessity as a rule to keep fowls healthy.

"An abundance of sour milk or buttermilk is used to keep the flock growing. This is used to supplement feed.

clean grain, mash feed and table scraps.

Poultry Club Offers Junior Cups. Five trophy cups open to members of juvenile poultry clubs who secure the most points at county and community fairs this year have been offered by the Wisconsin Poultry association, Madison. Any regular club may compete for them at any local fair in the state. Particulars regarding the offer will be furnished by Secretary J. G. Halpin, college of agriculture, Madison.

Sound Your Horn—Throw in Your Clutch—Drive Right Ahead

True—this country is in a state of war, but business must go on harder than ever.

There is no sufficient ground for the fine spirit of enterprise which always has been a distinguished trait of this nation to begin now to ooze out at our finger tips.

The merchants should keep on advertising—The people should keep on buying—The gait of the country should not change.

It should not change, first—because there is no necessity for change, and secondly—because ANY SLOWING DOWN NOW WOULD GREATLY HINDER THE SUCCESS OF THE WAR!

The things to guard against at the present stage are idleness, dissensions—and wastefulness of foodstuff on the one hand, and—TOO MUCH ECONOMY ON THE OTHER.

Any violent spasm of hoarding would be dangerous and wholly unjustified. To the billions of dollars spent by the allies in the United States, which have already given us two years of brisk times soon will be added other billions, the major part of which vast sums will stay right HERE!

And how will all this money be spent?

It will go to our Ship Yards, to our Steel Mills, to our Munitions Factories, to our Produce Markets, to our Shoe Factories, to our Cotton Mills, to our Woolen Mills, and to pretty much every other American industry, and from them to their workers!

And—What about taxes?

Well—every good citizen should be happy to respond to any taxation that our government may find it necessary to impose, because this is OUR war; but nearly every dollar that the government takes from us in this way—will remain right at home—and you, and your neighbor, and all the millions of other American workers, will have a chance to earn it all back—and a great deal more besides!

Hard Times? Nothing of the kind! Times will continue to be good here in America for a long time after the war!

Then be up and doing—Hit your horn—Throw in your clutch—Drive right on.

HEARING ON DAM TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Edgerton, July 12.—Survivors have been busy the past week surveying the water levels and determining the height of the Indian Ford dam. ## Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulled cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoons will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulled cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.
